2009

On August 13, 2009, Canwest issued a press release announcing that it had given the green-light for a 13-episode, one-hour fantasy and action series to air on the Showcase channel (a subsidiary of Canwest Broadcasting) in 2010:

"Lost Girl is so unique in that it weaves an array of genres — fantasy, romance, action — all the while developing these complicated, intelligent characters and rich storylines. We can't wait to get started producing this bold and fun series...With one of the hottest and most dynamic casts coming to television and an exceptional creative team, Showcase viewers can look forward to a sophisticated series chock-full of action-packed twists and turns laced with chemistry-fuelled relationships. (Christine Shipton, SVP Dramatic and Factual Content, Canwest Broadcasting) Lost Girl will also offer a cross platform experience to viewers. Production is currently underway on the development of an interactive website, graphic novel and downloadable video game."<sup>[3]</sup>

Lost Girl coming to Showcase Showcase (Canwest) tweet June 2010

On April 6, 2010, Prodigy Pictures and Canwest reported that "principal photography is underway for 13 one-hour episodes of the new original Canadian fantasy-noir series, Lost Girl. Filming will take place at a West Toronto soundstage and on location in the vicinities of Toronto and Hamilton until June 25, 2010. The series is set to air on Showcase in the fall....Lost Girl follows supernatural seductress Bo (Anna Silk: Being Erica; Billable Hours), a Succubus who feeds on the sexual energy of mortals. Growing up with human parents, Bo had no reason to believe she was anything other than the girl next door — until she drained her boyfriend to death in their first sexual encounter. Now she has hit the road alone and afraid. She discovers she is one of the Fae, creatures of legend and folklore, who pass as humans while feeding off them in secret, as they have for millennia. Relieved yet horrified to find out that she is not alone, Bo decides to take the middle path between the humans and the Fae while embarking on a personal mission to unlock the secrets of her origin. Bo's succubus nature tangles her in a sexy, romantic love-triangle with Dyson (Kris Holden-Reid: Ben Hur, The Bridge; The Tudors), a shape-shifting Fae and homicide detective, and Lauren (Zoie Palmer: The Guard; Instant Star), a human doctor who has found a way through science to help give Bo the sexual self-control she's been aching for. Navigating this complicated life with Bo is her human confidante and street-smart survivor, Kenzi (Ksenia Solo: Life Unexpected; Renegade<sup>press.com</sup>)."<sup>[5]</sup>

On June 22, 2010, Keyframe Digital Productions Inc.  reported that it was producing the visual effects on thirteen episodes of Lost Girl.<sup>[6]</sup>

Lost Girl series website 2010

As part of the promotion of the series, an official website (www.lostgirlseries.com) was opened at the beginning of August 2010. It contained a short trailer for the series and a summary of information on the show and its characters. On August 31, 2010, Lost Girl: The Interactive Motion Comic was released on the website as an introductory lead-in to the Showcase premiere of Lost Girl.<sup>[7]</sup>

Michelle Lovretta and Peter Mohan were co-Showrunners and co-Executive Producers of Season 1.

Season 2

Showcase renewed Lost Girl for a second season on November 12, 2010, announcing that it had "consistently drawn over 700,000 viewers weekly, making it the number one scripted drama series across all Canadian specialty channels."<sup>[27][28][29]</sup>

Production on thirteen episodes for Season 2 began on May 17, 2011, with filming taking place at a Toronto soundstage and at locations in and around the city until September 22, for a targeted Fall 2011 premiere.<sup>[30]</sup>

On May 18, 2011, Syfy \(U.S.\) announced that it had acquired 26 episodes (Season 1 and Season 2) of Lost Girl from Prodigy Pictures Inc.<sup>[31]</sup>

The order for an additional nine episodes to make the season a total of 22 episodes was announced by Showcase in a July 7, 2011, press release<sup>[32][33]</sup> made public two weeks before the first appearance of Lost Girl cast and producers at San Diego Comic-Con International on July 22, 2011.<sup>[34]</sup>

♦ Season 2 premiered on Sunday, September 4, 2011, at 9 p.m.<sup>[35]</sup>

To promote the show's United States premiere on Syfy (U.S.) in January 2012, a limited edition comic book, Lost Girl: Prologue, was distributed during the Lost Girl panel at SDCC.<sup>[36]</sup>

Lost Girl Prologue

The twenty-second, season finale episode aired on April 1, 2012.

The Showcase finale of Season 2 on April 1, 2012, was preceded by Lost Girl Finale Pre-Show, a one-hour special filmed on the series' Dal Riata set with a live audience, hosted by Lost Girl writer Steve Cochrane, featuring behind-the-scenes footage and interviews with Anna Silk, Kris Holden-Ried, Ksenia Solo, Zoie Palmer, Rick Howland, K.C. ## Season 3

Naming Lost Girl its "highest rated drama series", Showcase announced the renewal for a third season on December 9, 2011, with production beginning in Spring 2012.<sup>[44][45]</sup>

Prodigy Pictures announced the start of principle photography on Season 3 on April 17, 2012, with the season premiere slated for Fall 2012.<sup>[46]</sup>

Rachel Skarsten joined the cast as Tamsin, a new Fae detective in the 39th Division human police force, and Linda Hamilton appeared as a special guest star in the role of Acacia.<sup>[47]</sup>

On July 12, 2012, Showcase declared via Twitter that Season 3 would premiere in Winter 2013 (i.e. early 2013).<sup>[48]</sup>

♦ Season 3 premiered on Sunday, January 6, 2013, at 9 p.m.<sup>[47]</sup>

Lost Girl ConFAEdential, a Showcase pre-show special roundtable discussion with the Main Cast about the previous two seasons, preceded the January 6, 2013, premiere of the third season. Moderated by Jay Firestone, it featured (in order of introduction) Rick Howland, Zoie Palmer, Anna Silk, Kris Holden-Ried, Ksenia Solo, and K.C. Collins.<sup>[49]</sup>

Showcase and Prodigy Pictures held a Lost Girl live tweeting event with Anna Silk, Ksenia Solo, Zoie Palmer, Rick Howland, and K.C. Collins during the broadcasts of the pre-show special and the Season 3 premiere.<sup>[50][51][52]</sup> Lost Girl trended at Number 1 on Twitter during the episode's airing.<sup>[53]</sup>

The thirteenth and final episode of the season aired on April 14, 2013.

Immediately after the finale of Season 3 in Canada, Prodigy Pictures and Shaw Media launched Lost Girl: The Game, a free interactive mobile game app for iOS and Android devices.<sup>[54]</sup> Syfy (U.S.) followed on April 22, 2013, with the United States release.<sup>[55]</sup>

In Australia, Season 3 premiered on SF on January 10, 2013.<sup>[56]</sup> The rights to the third season of Lost Girl was acquired by SBS (Special Broadcasting Service)<sup>[57]</sup> after SF ceased operations on December 31, 2013.

Emily Andras, Consulting Producer and Writer during Season 1 and Season 2, was Showrunner and Executive Producer of Season 3.

Season 4

Midway through Season 3, Showcase announced the renewal of Lost Girl for a fourth season on February 28, 2013, citing consistent delivery of "stellar ratings" and a "cornerstone series" for the network.<sup>[62]</sup> Later on the same day, Syfy announced it had renewed Lost Girl for a fourth season containing thirteen episodes, and premiering in 2014.<sup>[63]</sup>

On May 31, 2013, Prodigy Pictures and Showcase announced that filming had begun on thirteen episodes for Season 4, with an expected premiere in Fall 2013;<sup>[64][65]</sup> followed with a start of production announcement by Syfy on June 4, 2013.<sup>[66]</sup>

Fourth season guest stars included Ali Liebert (as Crystal), George Takei (as Engelram), Kyle Schmid (as Rainer), Mia Kirshner (as Clio), and Linda Hamilton returning as Acacia.<sup>[64][67][68]</sup> The show's previous Sunday prime time schedule was changed from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.<sup>[69]</sup>

♦ Season 4 premiered on Sunday, November 10, 2013, at 10 p.m.

As a lead-in to the premiere of Season 4, Showcase announced the streaming of a special four-part Web Series on its Lost Girl website. The first webisode, UPYURS6, was released on October 13, 2013.<sup>[70]</sup> The final webisode, Prophecy, streamed on November 3, 2013.

Behind the scenes of
Lost Girl: An Evening at the Clubhouse

The November 10, 2013, premiere was preceded by Lost Girl: An Evening at the Clubhouse, a one-hour special featuring cast-on-cast interviews, webisode footage and a sneak peek. During the pre-show, cast reflected on both the past and upcoming seasons, revealed behind-the-scenes stories, and responded to fan questions.<sup>[68][71]</sup>

The thirteenth and final episode of the season aired on February 16, 2014.

In the United States, Season 4 premiered on Syfy \(U.S.\) on January 13, 2014 (with the show's Monday night time slot changed from 10 p.m. to 8 p.m.).<sup>[72]</sup>

In the United Kingdom (UK and Ireland), it premiered on Syfy UK on January 16, 2014.<sup>[73]</sup>

On January 23, 2014, Syfy (U.S.) announced via Twitter that the time slot for Lost Girl was changed to 10 p.m. effective Monday, January 27, 2014 (returning the series to its pre-Season 4 late-night broadcast schedule).<sup>[74]</sup>

Syfy (UK) moved Lost Girl from 10 p.m. to 9 p.m. effective Thursday, February 6, 2014.<sup>[75]</sup>

In Australia, no network had acquired the rights to Season 4 as of January 2014.<sup>[57]</sup>

After four seasons, K.C. Collins left the Main Cast with the death of Hale in Episode 4.11 (End Of A Line).

The DVD of Season 4 was released first in the United Kingdom on May 19, 2014; followed by Canada and the United States on June 24, 2014.

Emily Andras was Showrunner and Executive Producer of Season 4.

Season 5

Citing Lost Girl as the Number 1 ranked program on Showcase across multiple key demos (including the Top 20 of all Canadian Specialty Programs for Fall 2013 and continuing to rank in the Top 20 of all Canadian Specialty Programs in Winter/Spring 2014), the series was renewed for a fifth season consisting of 13 episodes on February 27, 2014. With production starting in the spring, the premiere of Season 5 was scheduled for Fall 2014.<sup>[76][77]</sup>

On April 9, 2014, Showcase and Prodigy Pictures (in association with Shaw Media) announced that production had begun on 13 episodes, with filming in and around Toronto.<sup>[78][79]</sup>

On August 25, 2014, Anna Silk and Showcase announced that Season 5 would be the final season. The original 13-episode season was extended to 16 episodes with the final season airing in two parts consisting of eight episodes each: the first eight episodes (Part 1) beginning on December 7th, and the second half (Part 2) in Fall 2015.<sup>[80][81]</sup>

Season 5 Showcase banner – Lost Girl series website

Guest stars for the fifth season included Amanda Walsh (as Zee), Luke Bilyk (as Mark), Noam Jenkins (as Heratio), Shanice Banton (as Iris), and Eric Roberts (as Hades).<sup>[82][83]</sup>

♦ Season 5 premiered on Sunday, December 7, 2014, at 9 p.m.

The premiere of the season was not preceded by a Showcase Lost Girl special.

The mid-season finale episode (end of Part 1) aired on January 25, 2015.<sup>[84]</sup>

After four seasons, including the pilot for the series, Ksenia Solo reduced her role as Kenzi in the final season to pursue other roles and opportunities as a director.

In Season 5, the original Showcase opening title sequence with voice-over monologue by Anna Silk and Lost Girl Theme Song was not used and episode opening credits were superimposed over the first scene. Order of billing: Anna Silk, Kris Holden-Ried, Zoie Palmer, Created by Michelle Lovretta, Lost Girl show title; followed by Rick Howland, Rachel Skarsten, supporting cast, guest actors. Ksenia Solo was included when she appeared in an episode.

On May 31, 2014, Anna Silk, Paul Amos, Vanessa Piazza, and Michael Grassi were guests in a special Lost Girl panel at the 2014 Toronto LGBT Film Festival, discussing creating and bringing to life bisexual and lesbian characters on television, and what made Lost Girl unique in writing relatable stories about them.<sup>[85]</sup>

Prompted by a Twitter message from the Writers Guild of Canada asking their followers what Canadian show they would fight for, Canadian television media website TV, eh? featured a one-week online poll of the same question. Lost Girl won by 46% (out of 12,618 voters).<sup>[86]</sup>

Lost Girl was the subject of a panel at the 2014 Film & History Conference on October 30, 2014. ("Film & History" is an Affiliated Society of the American Historical Association \(AHA\) and publishes "Film & History: An Interdisciplinary Journal of Film and Television Studies".) Hosted by the University of Wisconsin-Madison, the conference topic for 2014 was "Golden Ages: Styles & Personalities, Genres & Histories".<sup>[87][88]</sup>

International Production

On February 13, 2013, Sony Pictures Television \(SPT\) announced that Russian television channel TV-3 had commissioned 24 episodes of Lost Girl. The Russian-language version of the series was to be produced in Moscow by SPT local production company "Lean-M".<sup>[89]</sup>

Lost Girl description on nascent lostgirlseries.com website

" Lost Girl is a daring new series about mysterious young Bo, a succubus who drains the sexual energy of humans to feed, heal ... and kill. Having survived for years alone, she now discovers she is one of the fae, creatures of legend and folklore who secretly feed off humans in myriad ways. Relieved to find out that she is not alone, but horrified by what it means, Bo chooses a dangerous middle path between the humans and the fae while embarking on a personal mission to unlock the secrets of her origin. ## Showcase opening title sequence vs. Syfy (U.S.) opening credits

Episodes seen on Syfy in the United States are cut down from their original 44:00 minutes to allow more time for commercial advertisements.

When asked about differences between the series shown in the United States versus Canada, executive producer Jay Firestone responded that :90 seconds are cut from the original Showcase episodes for use on Syfy \(U.S.\) and he is involved in deciding which edits to make.<sup>[90]</sup>

Beginning with Season 3, the original Showcase opening title sequence of top main cast names, series creator and Lost Girl show title accompanied by Anna Silk's voice-over monologue and Lost Girl Theme Song was replaced with opening credits superimposed over footage of the first scene on episodes for Syfy (U.S.) – thus sparing 30 seconds that would have otherwise been included in the overall cutting of episodes for the United States.

For Season 5, the Showcase episodes used opening credits superimposed over the first scene instead of the traditional opening title sequence. Order of credits: Anna Silk, Kris Holden-Ried, Zoie Palmer, Created by Michelle Lovretta, Lost Girl show title; followed by Rick Howland, Rachel Skarsten, supporting cast, guest actors. Ksenia Solo was included when she appeared in an episode.

Editing of Bo and Lauren scenes for Syfy (U.S.) episodes

In Season 2, the decision to cut an emotive scene between Bo and Lauren from Scream a Little Dream created controversy among LGBT fans of the show, resulting in the network being accused of insensitivity and censorship. Lost Girl producers responded to the backlash by issuing a public statement on the show's Facebook page explaining that the edits were done in-house, and not by Syfy, for "timing and not content."<sup>[91]</sup>

As noted by Dorothy Snarker writing for AfterEllen: "With so little representation of gay relationships on TV, every little touch matters."<sup>[92]</sup>

After this experience, Syfy \(U.S.\) episodes had opening credits superimposed over the beginning of the first scene; salvaging :30 seconds from being deleted elsewhere in the episodes.

In Season 4, the deletion of eight sentences (:50 seconds) of dialogue between Bo and Lauren from their last scene together in Dark Horse, the season finale episode, resulted in protests by many fans because a pivotal moment between the two same-sex lovers was eliminated: Lauren told Bo that she belonged to her ( "I'm yours." ).<sup>[93]</sup>

How this scene was edited <sup>[94][95]</sup> led to the creation of a petition on Change.org asking Syfy (U.S.) to consider how the deletion of decisive dialogue between Bo and Lauren created a different perception among American audiences of Lauren's motivations towards Bo and of their romantic relationship.<sup>[96]</sup>

As editors of the blog "PIXEL 51 - STIMULI" pointed out: imagine what the effect would be if the "We'll always have Paris." dialogue between Rick and Ilsa in "Casablanca" were to be deleted.<sup>[97]</sup>

Lost Girl Official Merchandise

On March 5, 2014, Lost Girl series announced on its Facebook page that official Lost Girl merchandise was now available online for purchase. Selections included T-Shirts, hoodies, drinkware, and other miscellaneous items printed with various designs (e.g. "Team Lost Girl").<sup>[98]</sup>

Freedom To Love Necklace

On April 11, 2014, a limited edition replica of the necklace and pendant gift from Lauren that Bo found in Turn to Stone and wore in Dark Horse was made available for a limited time.<sup>[99]</sup> Designed by Prodigy Pictures, the pendant of the sterling silver "Freedom To Love Necklace" was based on the Labrys,<sup>[100]</sup> a double-headed axe symbol originally associated with the goddess worship of the Minoan civilization<sup>[101]</sup> and adopted in the 1970s by the lesbian-feminist movement as a symbol representing feminist/warrior, and by the women's spirituality movement.<sup>[102][103]</sup>

Team Lost Girl hoodie

The first 250 orders were accompanied with an autographed photo from Anna Silk and Zoie Palmer and all revenue from sales of the necklace was donated to the non-profit "Because I Am a Girl" <sup>[104]</sup> campaign by Plan Canada. The total donation was just over $25,000. <sup>[105]</sup>

Lost Girl Series  (the official twitter of Lost Girl), Anna Silk and Zoie Palmer responded with tweets thanking fans for the donation generated from the necklace.<sup>[106][107][108]</sup>

September 30, 2013. SheKnows

Number 7: Bo and Lauren

Wildly popular in Canada, Lost Girl has gained a cult following in the U.S. as well. Bo's (Anna Silk) relationship with Lauren (Zoie Palmer) has also gained a lot of attention. We're happy the writers decided to put these two together — making many fans of the show happy as well.
